

UNEMPLOYED MEN COMING INTO CANADA

OFFICIALS AT WINDSOR THINK
THEY DRESS AS WORKMEN TO SECURE ENTRY.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Windsor, March 15.—The great increase within the past few weeks of unemployed men coming into Canada from across the line leads the Canadian immigration officials stationed here to believe that a well-organized "underground route" exists in or near Detroit, which for a consideration instructs "undesirables" how to cross the line directly under the noses of the preventive officers.

To-day one officer alone turned back seven men who tried by various schemes to get into the country, and from a letter in the possession of one of these the officials base their belief that men who have found it impossible to enter Canada by the regular channels are dressed in ordinary workingmen's clothes and come over on the ferry. The hours usually chosen are either early in the morning or at the time of the 6 o'clock rush at night.

It is expected that the Government will shortly be asked to appoint additional immigration officers at this port to more strictly guard the frontier.

Brentford and Bootle.

(Canadian Associated Cable.)

London, March 15.—Lord Compton, M.P. for Brentford, has resigned, and Mr. Joynson-Hicks will be the Unionist candidate, Bonar Law being adopted to-day for Bootle, where Col. Sandys has resigned.

Col. Sandys (U.) was returned unopposed in the Bootle division of Lancashire in December. Bonar Law was beaten in Manchester, N.W., by the Liberal, Sir. G. Kemp. Joynson-Hicks (U.), former Unionist for N.W. Manchester, was beaten also by Sir George Kemp in the January, 1910, election.

GREEK FAMILY GOES ASTRAY.

Kastros Fails to Find Them at Station.

Peter Kastros, who keeps a confectionery store at 1,742 Dundas street, has asked the police to assist him in locating his wife and two children, who arrived in the city yesterday from Athens, Greece.

They came with a party of Greeks bound for various places in Ontario. Kastros went down to the Union Station to meet his family and loitered around the waiting-room for several hours. Finally he approached the doorkeeper and found to his surprise that the party had arrived a couple of hours before he reached the station.

He then made a search of the waiting-rooms, after which he visited several places in the "Ward" where he thought his family might have been taken until they got in communication with him. Apart from learning that they had left the station with a party of Greeks, he was unable to get any trace of them. As a last resource he sought the assistance of the police.

FIRES ON SAME STREET.

Restaurant and House Damaged About the One Time.

The firemen were called out last night to stop a stubborn blaze in Seigel's restaurant, at Elizabeth and Albert streets. The fire originated in the ceiling. The rear part of the building was gutted, entailing a damage of about $500, fully covered by insurance.

While the fire was in progress another blaze broke out in a house at 96 Albert street, occupied by Robert Pickens. The occupants of the place were out.

The firemen were obliged to gain an entrance through a rear window. The damage was trifling.
