

FOREIGNERS CAN'T SEND THEIR MONEY AWAY FROM SAULT

Indications are That it Must Rest or be Spent in the City.

Indications are that whatever money is paid out by employers of labor in the Sault this month, and for some time to come, will be spent in the Sault, to a much greater extent, comparatively, than in any other month for some years.

This is accounted for by the fact that money orders on many European countries cannot now be obtained. Orders issued as far back as July 17 are being returned to the post office here daily. These orders are on post offices in Austria, Germany and Italy especially.

On August 6, orders on offices in Austria, Germany, Belgium and Egypt were ordered to be refused, until the rates of exchange between the two countries would be on a more permanent basis.

On September 5, orders for the resumption of orders on Russia, India and all the countries with money order postal connection with those, with which the British Postal Department acts as intermediary, were resumed. The exceptions are Luxemburg, Egypt and Constantinople, which is served from Germany, with which country Great Britain has no exchange now.

Another feature of the change in postal regulations for transmission in money is that no more than $100.00 may be sent out by one person in one day. A short time ago a person in this city wished to mail three hundred and some odd dollars by money order to Great Britain. To do so he had to make out four orders and send one on each day.

There is now no money order service to Germany, German colonies, Austria or Luxemburg. Several other smaller countries and principalities are also cut off. All the letters sent to any of the prohibited foreign countries before August 15 are now being sent to the dead letter office.
