

R. Malda and N. Janowski, two prisoners of war, have been interned by the mounted police and have been sent to Lethbridge. Malda has refused to register himself as a deserter, ordered by the recent order-in-council of the Government, while the other man is considered by the police a dangerous person to be at large.