

Petitions are being circulated in London calling for a civic or military trial of H. J. Gläubitz, the German-born general manager of the London Public Utilities Commission charged with aiding a German reservist to leave the country.