John Deltz Gets Lecture From Registrar of Alien Enemies

John Deltz appeared before the Registrar of Alien Enemies yesterday, charged with seditious utterances.

"Where were you born, in Germany?" asked Mr. A. J. Russell Snow, K.C.

"I never was in Germany," said Deltz. "My parents were American citizens. The first vote my father cast was for Abraham Lincoln."

"Have you been behaving yourself as a good Canadian since you came to this country?"

"Well, I should have been arrested before if I hadn't," argued Deltz.

The Registrar then gave Deltz a lecture on the text, "In vino veritas." "So," he concluded, "I advise you to keep sober and be a hypocrite."

The soldiers who brought Deltz down to the office stood in uncertainty what to do when the Registrar discharged him. Deltz decided the question, "I got to go back with them. They got $9 of my money. I've got three tickets; we might as well ride back as walk," said he amiably to his guards, producing some blue tickets.
