GERMAN HAS BEEN TRAVELLING
EASTERN ONTARIO—TAKEN TO DETENTION CAMP.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Brighton, Ont., Aug. 18.—A German named Leib was arrested here this morning by Constable Robert McLaren and taken to the detention camp at Kingston on the C. N. R. train. Leib had been in town several days, going under the name of Lee, and had been boarding at a private house in the village. On Sunday night he went to Charlotte, N.Y., on the steamer Caspian, but was turned back by the U. S. authorities, who notified this port to examine him on his return. On examination he said he was a German who had been in Canada three years, and gave his business as a travelling photographer. He had a number of postcard views and several photographs he had taken himself. All the photos were of bridges, etc., three being different views of Belleville bridge. He had visited the lake shore towns surrounding here and several small places to the north. He had been in Cobourg, Baltimore, Trenton, Belleville and other places besides Brighton. He had a complete photographic outfit with him and a bicycle to travel on. There was a woman with him during part of his stay in this village.

The Kingston authorities were communicated with and from his description they expressed the opinion he was possibly a brother of the spy by the same name who was executed in London, Eng., and they gave instructions to take him to the detention camp there.
