

Prisoners Use Invisible Ink

*Commandant of Internment
Camp at Fort Henry Has
Been Advised*

Special to The Daily News.

Kingston, Ont., April 5.—Major Campbell, commandant of the internment camp at Fort Henry, has been advised to be on the lookout for letters written by prisoners in invisible ink, and all letters written are being thoroughly examined.

It is stated that prisoners in other camps have been using invisible ink to convey information to the enemy.