

TAME INAUGURATION OF IRISH "PARLIAMENT"

PUBLIC HANGS OUT LOYAL
FLAGS TO SHOW FEELING AGAINST SINN FEINERS.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Dublin, Jan. 22.—The "Dail Eir-ann" begins a new page in the many-chaptered history of Irish protest against government by Great Britain. It throws down the gauntlet to British law.

What may be the consequence to its members, if there be any consequence, no one in Dublin can foresee or predict. Dublin's everyday life was undisturbed by the defiance of the Government registered at the Mansion House. The Government, or its part, took no notice that anything unusual was afoot.

Members of the Assembly poured out quietly into the crowd of undemonstrative sympathizers and curious onlookers yesterday, but beyond the fringes of that crowd the streets were filled with women shoppers and unarmed British soldiers who loafed on the sidewalks. The only sign of interest which loyal citizens displayed was the hanging out of a large number of Union Jacks to testify to the politics of the houses they decorated.

This may have been a historical day for Ireland, but the inauguration of the Irish Parliament was neither thrilling nor imposing.

Should Return Aliens to Internment Camps

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Brantford, Jan. 22.—At a round-table conference here, called to discuss repatriation work, and with manufacturers, Labor men, Great War Veterans and others represented, a strong resolution was passed calling for the return to the internment camps of all enemy aliens. It was pointed out that many of the aliens had been released from these camps in order that they might take the place of men who enlisted. Now that these men are returning it is felt that the foreigners should not continue to retain the employment in place of the veterans.

GETS THIRTY DAYS.

William Birch, a youth charged with stealing a motor car, pleaded guilty to the charge, and admitting having previously served thirty days at the Jail Farm, was sentenced to another thirty days at the same institution by Judge Winchester yesterday. The prisoner's mother pleaded for him, and stated she was taking him to England.
