

TORONTO MILITIA HAD TROUBLE WITH A GERMAN ON STREET CAR

Toronto, Nov. 9. Felix Loris, a German, of Spencer street, is in jail on a charge of assault. Sunday morning he assailed three soldiers of the Thirty-first regiment, who were aboard a street car on their way to church, and told them "the Germans would knock their blocks off," and failing to land a swing for the jaw of one of them, spat in his face.

The conductor put the entire party off the car, and the soldiers had the aggressor at his back in the gutter when the police appeared.
