

German suspects under detention in Winnipeg are forced by the government to read the Winnipeg Telegram. The prisoners complain bitterly of this gratuitous and wanton cruelty and they assert that the minds of several of their number are giving way under the strain. They have petitioned the authorities to relax the regulation to the extent of making the reading of Maud optional, not obligatory.