

ANYBODY HERE FROM LETHBRIDGE

Question Wafted Over to Can- ucks from German Trenches in France

Lethbridge Germans are fighting in the trenches near Neuve Chapelle against the Canadians. That's a solemn fact, according to William Marchington, special correspondent for the Toronto Globe, with the Canadians at the front.

In a special cable to the Globe, Mr. Marchington says:

"The Canadians encounter many of the Germans who have resided in Canada. "Anybody here from Lethbridge?" shouted a German from his trench one night, adding: I worked in —'s colliery there."

So, despite the rigid watch of the Mounted Police, some Germans, who had been taking good Canadian money, made their getaway, and are now fighting for Kaiser Bill.
