

Supt. Clarke had to go to Calgary again during the week-end, in consequence of important business having relation to the new internment camp.