

GERMAN SPIES BUSY IN THE MAINE WOODS

Fishermen Find a Wireless Apparatus —Aeroplane With Searchlight on Border.

Bretton Woods, N. H., July 28.—Residents of northern Vermont and New Hampshire are at least becoming alarmed over the unmistakable evidence that these sections and that part of northwestern Maine bordering upon Canada are interested with German spies. An aeroplane with searchlights has been seen at various points near the Canadian border, and is thought to be of the biplane type, and possibly the same one whose night visitations are alarming Montreal and Quebec.

Fishermen who have penetrated into the Maine woods near the Canadian border report coming upon, in the heart of the forest southeast of Megantic, a wireless apparatus which was connected with a camp owned by Germans, and numbers of Germans have appeared in the towns of northern Vermont and New Hampshire of late.

In Colebrook several weeks ago two Germans arrived, claiming to be soliciting orders for a business house in Boston. They have acted in a suspicious manner, and one of them takes a carriage or motor daily and makes a canvass of the network of roads which run northward and over the Canadian line eight miles distant at Hereford, Quebec.
