

JUDGE SAYS BOOZE HURTS ALL TAKERS

Should Treat Civilians Same as Soldiers, He Tells Grand Jury

"The authorities are doing everything possible to keep our soldiers from getting liquor, because it makes them inefficient. I don't see how restrictions should be applicable to soldiers any more than to any other people, because it affects every person in the same way," said Judge Winchester in his address to the Grand Jury at the opening of the Criminal Sessions yesterday. "It is for you to make whatever recommendations you deem wise without consideration of political opinions, in order to increase the efficiency of young men and for the good of the country at large," his Honor concluded.

The docket for the present Sessions is an unusually small one, only 22 cases being set down for hearing. The smallest list of applications for naturalization in years, which contains the names of 53 foreigners, fifteen of whom are alien enemies, was read by the Clerk of the Peace.
