

BARONESS VON HUTTEN LEFT GERMAN HUSBAND

SHE APPEARS IN LONDON COURT
FOR CHANGING ADDRESS
WITHOUT PERMIT.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, July 27.—Baroness Bettina von Hutten has been arrested as an enemy alien travelling more than five miles from her address without a permit. At the Police Court hearing the Baroness protested that she was not a German, but American born. She explained that she had been divorced from her German husband eight years ago and had lived in England ever since, and that she believed she would regain all her rights of American citizenship whenever she returned to America. Scotland Yard detectives said there had been previous complaints against the Baroness travelling about the country. The presiding Judge said it was doubtful whether the Baroness could be considered an alien enemy. The case was adjourned in order to enable her to obtain counsel.

The Baroness von Hutten was formerly Miss Betsy Riddle of Pennsylvania. After her divorce from her husband she appeared on the stage in London.

The Baroness, who is an American by birth, and daughter of John Riddle of Erie, Pa., is the creator of that delightful, wayward, fascinating little person, "Pam," which so pleased and interested the public that the authoress made—and successfully, too—the dangerous experiment of following her fortunes in a later book called "What Became of Pam?" "Sharrow," "Marr'd in Making," and "The Lordship of Love" are other well-known books she has written. The Baroness is fond of travel, and used to spend most of her time between Italy and England. In the old country she has a delightful home at Hindhead, rejoicing in the "Pam-esque" name of "The House in the Wood."
