

NEWS TO GENERAL LESSARD

Has Received No Word That He is to Succeed Logie at Camp Borden.

"The first I heard of it was when I got here yesterday afternoon at 5.45." said Major-General Lessard, to-day, when asked as to the published statement that he was to succeed General Logie at Camp Borden. "General Logie may be going overseas, of course, I don't know as to that, but I have not received any notice, official or otherwise, that I am to take his place if he does go. I don't know what they have at the back of their heads in Ottawa or what they intend to do with me. I am a very busy man and am going ahead doing my work and they always know where to find me if they have anything for me. I go to London on Monday, then to Camp Borden again, and from there to Ottawa. There are a lot of camps in Eastern Canada when you go all the way from Sault Ste. Marie to London, Niagara, Borden, Petawawa, Barriefield, Ottawa, Valcartier and Aldershot in Nova Scotia to mention some of the important ones, so I really have no time to think about other jobs until they are given me."
