

TORONTO TROOPS RAID RESTAURANT TO NAB AUSTRIAN

Five Hundred Incensed By Insult Take Swiss and Russian Waiters to Police

TORONTO, April 13—Incensed by an alleged attack by an Austrian on a soldier in a restaurant here a few days ago, a crowd of soldiers, numbering 500 representing several units at Exhibition camp, raided Child's restaurant, at Yonge and Richmond streets, at 8 o'clock last evening, seized a Swiss and a Russian employed there, escorted them to the police station, where the aliens were locked up to prevent further trouble.

The soldiers then marched in a body to Young's restaurant, at Yonge and Queen streets, paraded through the place without doing any damage or securing an alien prisoner and subsequently made similar visits to McConkey's lunch room on Bay street and the King Edward hotel. Later several bands paraded the streets by way of demonstration.

The scene in Child's was a wild one. As the men, originally 100 in number, approached, they called on every khaki clad figure on the streets to join in avenging the alleged insult. On arrival at the restaurant they demanded the delivery of the Austrian and were told that a few of them might come in and search. In a few minutes the large dining room was packed with soldiers and pandemonium reigned.

The patrons were badly frightened and the waiters reduced to nervous helplessness. No food could be served and guests departed as fast as they could. Some dishes and chairs were smashed but not much damage was done. No Austrians were found. As the last soldier trailed out the doors were locked and the placed wag closed for hours.

At Young's restaurant Provost Marshall Sinclair, of the 48th Highlanders, attempted to restore order, but was roundly abused and hustled out by the soldiers.

Gen. Logie said last night that he would arrange with Mayor Church today to return to the picketing system of last winter until the troops from headquarters were moved to the east.

One soldier was arrested during the demonstrations.
