Major-Gen. Sir Wm. Otter Says Aliens are Not Giving Any Great Trouble

---

Foreigners in Western Canada are behaving themselves very well, said Major-General Sir William Otter, who made a visit of inspection to the interned aliens in the city. No particular restlessness could be noticed among any of them, and, although there were a number moving about looking for work, the harvest now beginning should give them employment.

It would be impossible to say what would be done in the winter when work ceased.

Speaking about the prisoners at the Winter Fair building he said that their quarters in that building were pretty nearly filled up, but there was still a little room. But beyond remarking that more room would be obtained when needed, he declined to make any statement as to what would be done with additional prisoners.

A few were being paroled, and these always behaved themselves well, as it was not the policy of the government to allow any man to go unless the officials were sure that he would be good.
