

QUIET AGAIN IN WINNIPEG AFTER SATURDAY RIOT

Mayor Gray Says That He Does Not Anticipate Further Trouble

Winnipeg, June 23—"Everything is quiet; I do not anticipate trouble today," said Mayor Gray to the Canadian Press this afternoon. Asked whether he had heard the rumor that strike sympathizers were about to march on the city from the industrial northwestern suburb of Weston, his worship said he had heard nothing of it. He stated that, in compliance with the expressed desire of the men's committee, he is endeavoring to arrange for them to hold a meeting in the industrial bureau tomorrow. Such meeting would be subject to police control, a stenographic record of proceedings would be taken, and it would be broken up on any incitements to unlawful act.

An unconfirmed report says that a considerable number of rifles with ammunition were taken last night from aliens in the north end. There is a conspicuous absence on Main street today of people looking like alien enemies. Otherwise conditions are normal, more street cars are running on more routes than on any day since the first tieup.

Shortly before noon Monday the Royal North West Mounted Police, with motor machine guns units, paraded Main street. Traffic, however, has not been suspended and no reason so far has been assigned for the reappearance of the troops. Everything appears quiet. Later the troops were removed.

Mayor Gray's statement that the first shots were fired at the police from the crowd was corroborated by numerous observers, as well as by the foot and mounted police.
