

The residents on German street, Reafrew, are determined that that thoroughfare shall no longer have a Prussian taint, and so have petitioned the town Council that the name be changed to "Kitchener" street. The petition was presented and read at this week's meeting of the Council, but that body have deferred action, and the matter will likely be one of the first things which next year's Council will have to settle. It will necessitate some expenditure, requiring a change in the registration plans and also the legal advertising.—Journal.
