

CHARGE OF SEDITION FACES PAUL KRUGER

Special to The Journal.

PEMBROKE, June 2. — Paul Kruger, a Pembroke resident who, like his namesake of South African fame, seems to care but little for the British Empire, is now in the county gaol here, awaiting trial on a charge of using seditious language. He was committed yesterday by Police Magistrate Stewart, after a hearing lasting only about an hour, and will not come up for trial until the assizes in December next, no other court having jurisdiction.

Kruger is alleged to have expressed satisfaction upon hearing that some Pembroke boys had been killed in France, and to have said that it was good for them, and that he hoped they would all be killed. He is said to have at other times expressed similar sentiments. Crown Attorney Burritt was the prosecutor, and, on the strength of the evidence presented, the magistrate committed Kruger.

Another Pembroke soldier has been killed in France. This time it is Pte. Martin T. Dunlevy, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Dunlevy, town.

He went overseas last fall, and to France in December, a member of a local unit. Just twenty-one years of age, he was a bright and promising young man, and his parents and family feel his loss most keenly. The news of his death came in a letter from a friend in France, but official notice from the record office has not yet been received. Before enlisting, Pte. Dunlevy was in the employ of Mr. E. H. Gardner, furniture dealer here. He leaves his parents, one brother, Peter, and three sisters—Mrs. Thomas Leeney, of Toronto; Miss Kathleen, of the Bell Telephone office here, and Miss Rose, of the local separate school staff.

The Colonial Lumber Co., Ltd., will, it is announced, rebuild this season the sawmill destroyed in the big fire last Monday night. As soon as the work of adjusting the insurance is completed the erection of the new mill will be proceeded with, while work on the building of a new planer is to be started immediately. For this reason, the Colonial employees will be turned over to the Pembroke Lumber Co., whose mill will be run day and night, and who will saw the Colonial Company's logs. These announcements have been received with a good deal of satisfaction in town, as they give assurance that there will be no interruption of operations this season or in the future.
