

The Kingston Whig says that the population at Fort Henry still continues to increase. Although nothing is being given out it is thought that about 150 suspects are now in confinement there. On Monday evening a military guard arrived in the city with forty-two German and Austrian suspects who have been rounded up during the past few weeks. So far six or seven of the prisoners have been allowed out on parole.