

Three bohunks were sent down from the internment camp last week. They were accused of being trouble makers, or bad men, and put away where their peculiar energies would have less effect.