

German Reservists Caught in Toronto

Two Austrians Picked up While Police Waited for Others

German and Austrian reservists trying to sneak back from Canada to answer the call to the colors in Europe are being watched by the police and military authorities.

Last night, acting upon notification from London, Ontario, an army lieutenant and five detectives met the 9.30 C. P. R. eastbound train. While waiting for this to arrive they strolled over to see a Hamilton train come in at 9.15. The first two gentlemen to step off were Austrians. They were immediately escorted to the police station. On the London train four Germans came in, and they were also put up at Chief Grassett's hostelry.
