

LOVES FATHERLAND BUT NOT THE GERMAN GOVT.

Montreal, Nov. 23.—Henry Chippel, 78 years of age, a German subject who has lived in Canada 63 years, has just arrived here from his native town in Saxony. Chippel declined to express an opinion on any phase of the war, but freely declared his own dislike of the German government and his loyalty to Canada.

“I love my fatherland, but I don't like the German government; and if there were any danger of their taking Canada I would shoulder a rifle to fight them, old as I am.”
