

DANGEROUS SPY ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN IN CANADA

Supposed Journalist From Bonn, Germany, Moved in Ottawa Society

(Western Associated Press)

LONDON, Dec. 21.—A London citizen moving in the highest circles, and but recently returned from Canada, says that he believes he has unearthed another dangerous German spy in Canada. While in the dominion my informant heard of a man styling himself as a journalist and a fellow of the Royal Historical society, but the secretary of the society states that the suspect's name had been removed from the register for two reasons, one being the lapse of his subscription and the other a peculiar irregularity in the method of his nomination. The address of the supposed German was given as Bonn, Germany. Like the principal of another recent case of espionage, the pseudo journalist moved in Ottawa's society circles, but my informant is convinced that he is an agent of the Kaiser.
