

Half a dozen Austrians who made a break for liberty from the Spirit Lake colony were recaptured after wandering about in a hungry state for some time, and were not sorry to be returned to the comfortable quarters the Government provides. There are worse places for an alien in time of war than a concentration camp over which the Union Jack flies.