

TURKS WERE CAPTURED

The military authorities on Sunday morning went alien hunting and caught a number of Turks, whom it was thought would be better in a detention camp than at large, in view of what their compatriots are doing over the water.

At McKinnon's, St. Kitts, seven Turks, it is understood, who were working there, were captured, while at the Riordon Paper Mills at Merritton ten more were taken.

The men were brought to the detention camp here, where they probably will be held until the war is over.
