

THE ENEMY IN OUR MIDST

The attempts committed at Windsor and Warkerville, Ont., were of a nature to draw public attention to the serious dangers that menace us in Canada through the "trustworthy Teutons." It is therefore necessary to redouble the vigilance against these suspects who threaten our safety. The duties that are incumbent upon the authorities in this regard are very delicate, for they consist in conciliating respect for individual liberty with the maintenance and protection of public order. Tolerance, however, must not degenerate into feebleness, which is full of peril. Coercive measures which appear odious in times of peace may be necessary in war times.
