

Sunday night, while searching for the men who had escaped from the internment camp, Constable Snedden picked up an unregistered Austrian, five miles this side of Canmore, and packed the fellow to town behind the saddle.