

EXERCISE FOR WAR PRISONERS

Aliens at Ottertail Camp Will Have Plenty to Do During the Winter.

Third and fourth class prisoners transferred from the internment camp at Revelstoke to the new camp at Ottertail, near Field, will have plenty of exercise this winter to keep them warm. There were rumors that the new camp would be rather a cold place, but the prisoners will be given plenty of wholesome work to keep their blood moving.

Last year fire swept through some fine timber limits near Ottertail. Much of the timber was scorched, and, if left standing, would be useless in a few years' time. Now it can be cut with advantage and used for palings, fencing and sleepers. According to information supplied The World, the alien enemies of third and fourth class ratings will be employed in clearing up this "brule" this winter.

There are now 100 prisoners at Ottertail and the camp there is being gradually extended to accommodate the aliens interned at Revelstoke.
