

Two Austrians, whose names could not be obtained, were arraigned in the police court this morning charged with trying to leave the country without permission. The Austrians were handed over to the immigration department.