

Since the escape of Theodore Olsen and his five German accomplices from the Lethbridge No. 1 interment camp, the guards have unearthed a duplicate tunnel in No. 2 camp, where most of the internees are Austrians. Owing to having greater difficulty to dispose of earth taken from the tunnel, the men failed to make time and a get-away, and all are now under limited diet of bread and water.