Recognizing an Historic Injustice: Canada's First World War Internment Operations, 1914-1920

History, Canadian Studies and Social Studies teachers now have a resource to help their middle and senior high school students explore the events, cause and consequences of the internment of thousands of individuals in Canada during the First World War era.

This teaching unit seeks to raise awareness about a largely untold event in Canada's past that affected many communities including Ukrainians, Bulgarians, Croatians, Czechs, Germans, Hungarians, Italians, Jews, various people from the Ottoman Empire, Polish, Romanians, Russians, Serbians, Slovaks, Slovenes, among others of which most were Ukrainians and most were civilians.

Available in print while supplies last and for free download at tc2.ca/pv

The 145-page resource provides detailed teaching instructions, briefing sheets, historical documents, images, and assessment materials to support students in thinking critically about topics such as:

- Should this incident be in the curriculum?
- Why did it happen?
- What was life like in the camps?
- How did the event affect the lives of individuals and communities?
- Has the government properly responded to this injustice?
- Could it happen again?
- How might we educate Canadians about this injustice?
